

Dear Hunter and Fellow Sportsman,

Thank you for reaching out to our organization. As you may know, we have nearly 250,000 acres of deeded ground. Most of that ground is in a checkerboard pattern commingled with BLM ground within your hunting unit. We make no attempts of limiting access to the majority of that private property. We do however limit hunter access to some of our "bottom" ground along thousand springs drainage. This restriction is for the safety of our livestock and our employees and has nothing to do with not liking hunters or trying to limit hunter's success. We are hunters ourselves and support those that share the sport and respect for wildlife and private property rights that we do. We have made every attempt that we believe is reasonable to ensure your success and safety for all. It is a very small corridor where hunter access is limited and we trust that you will respect that. We do allow and maintain pass through access in at least 5 locations along the thousand springs corridor through our private property. Those access points are located directly through the Winecup Headquarters (please drive slow and watch for children), the 9 mile mountain access, the 20 mile access (double brown gates), 11 Mile Canyon, and Gamble Canyon. We have most signs posting the no trespassing areas as well as a few locked gates. As a general rule, the restricted areas are fenced meadows or small narrow pastures that are located in the thousand springs drainage. If a gate is not posted or is not locked and on a main travelled path than you could safely assume it is one of the 5 access points across our private ground. If it is posted with a no trespassing sign, locked or if it is a gate that is not on a primary two track road than we ask that you please use one of the other access points to pass through our private property.

If you are a Unit 075 sportsman than you will notice that there is no limitations in access through and hunting on our private property currently. This is no guarantee of future decisions.

We have high hopes that Sportsman will respect our private property by leaving gates how they find them, camping in respectful locations by not blocking roadways or gates, carrying out all garbage, and limiting their travel to existing roads. These rules also apply to all predator and bird hunters. It is also worth considering your travel during high rain events or heavy snowfall and the impact that your over the road vehicle will have on erosion and the future condition of roads. Thank you for your consideration and communication. We appreciate it very much.

Sincerely,
Winecup Gamble Ranch
